MODERN MANBO

WHAT IS MODERN MANBO?

I created MODERN MANBO in celebration of women and our extraordinary strength, beauty and femininity.

A “Manbo” in Haitian Vodou is a priestess. The name Manbo comes from the Fon language (Nanbo) and means “Mother of Magic”. A Manbo is simply a leader of her spiritual community. She uses her knowledge and intuition to guide her community. Modern Manbo is a symbol of female empowerment and leadership.

“ Modern Manbo is dedicated to all the bold, beautiful women who resonate with the spirit of the Manbo. ”

- Malou Beauvoir

Conceived by singer-songwriter and actress, Malou Beauvoir, Modern Manbo artfully weaves the sacred symbols of Vodou into luxurious kaftans, coats, and silk scarves. Named after the revered 'Manbo', or priestess, in Haitian Vodou, the label is a profound homage to female empowerment and leadership.

Malou's creations are born from the rich cultural tapestry of her global journeys. From the opulent silks of India and Asia to the exquisitely crafted textiles of Italy, France, and the Middle East, she meticulously sources unique fabrics worldwide.

Her exquisite painterly designs are a testament to her love of texture, color, and the ethereal grace of garments like the African boubou and the tunics of India and Pakistan.

Each piece in the Modern Manbo collection embodies a narrative of tradition and innovation, celebrating the timeless essence of femininity and the universal strength of women.

Her Spiritwalker Collection features a series of luxury silk scarves inspired by the ancient Haitian Vodou spirits and their sacred symbols, known as Veve.

The Manbo, or "Mother of Magic," channels her wisdom and intuition to guide her community, mirroring the indomitable spirit of the women who inspire Malou:

Malou Beauvoir's journey has been multi-dimensional. Despite being an award-winning singer, songwriter, actress, and businesswoman, her true calling lies in the intersection of art, spirituality, and cultural advocacy.

Across her career in the arts and business, Malou has always been guided by her deep-rooted spiritual beliefs. Her path into Vodou was inspired and nurtured by her uncle, Max Beauvoir, a celebrated spiritual leader in Haiti.

His passing in 2015, followed by the death of his daughter Rachel Beauvoir-Dominique in 2018, left a void in the Vodou community, prompting Malou to take on the mantle of preserving and promoting the rich cultural and spiritual ancestral heritage.

Her transcendent songwriting and fashion designs are the medium through which she expresses her profound connection to Vodou and its sacred traditions.

Through music, she weaves stories that echo the spiritual and cultural legacy of her lineage, inviting listeners into a world where every note reverberates with the magic of her ancestors.

In fashion, Malou's creations are more than just garments—they are wearable art pieces that encapsulate the essence of Vodou's sacred symbols and the strength of the women who embody the spirit of the Manbo.

Through her art and advocacy, Malou continues to honor her heritage and illuminate the path for future generations to embrace the rich, vibrant traditions of Vodou.

“ I aim to inspire others by awakening curiosity and encouraging new ideas. Vodou, often misunderstood, honors nature and universal energy. Through my songs, interviews, and garments, I hope to ignite pride and curiosity in young Haitians about their culture and ancestors. Stand up for yourself, not the crowd. ”
